SECOND BIRTHDAY OF REPEAL

Here and There

Editorial By Alex. H. Washburn

THE second anniversary of prohibition repeal—the Eighteenth Amendment was “killed” December 5, 1933—finds the American people worrying with a multitude of local referendums on the liquor question. Here in Hempstead county petitions are being circulated for such a referendum, and The Star is accused of attempting to block it. That is true. We are urging our readers to refuse to sign the petition, just as we are urging them, if a special election actually is called, to vote against returning this county to “prohibition.”

British and French Offer Peace Plan; ‘Take or Leave It’

Last Word of European Allies Before Ordering Embargo Upon Oil

THEY'RE WORRIED

Can Not Allow Collapse of Italy, Fearing Upset of Balance of Power

By the Associated Press

Great Britain and France have given Italy “a set of suggestions” for ending the Italo-Ethiopian war in East Africa, with an appended comment which said in effect, “Take it or leave it.”

Diplomatic sources said Thursday that this represented the last word of London and Paris before an oil embargo is applied against the government of Premier Mussolini.

No change was apparent in the attitude of the Italian government.

Italians are watching the United States closely for further indications of the attitude of this country.

British ‘Prepared’

LONDON, Eng.—(AP)—Sir Samuel Hoare, foreign secretary, Thursday delivered a pronouncement of the British stand for oil sanctions (boycott and embargo) against Italy when he told the House of Commons, “We are prepared to play our part.”

The foreign secretary's pronouncement was made shortly after it was learned at the admiralty that the battle cruisers Hood and Renown and other British naval vessels will leave the Mediterranean for maneuvers in the Atlantic.

Fear Italian Collapse

PARIS, France.—The real pre-occupation of the French government, and to a lesser degree the British government, is that learned Wednesday, no longer is how to end the war in Ethiopia but how to save Italy from a complete collapse which would upset the balance of power in Europe.

The feeling is growing here that regardless of prolongation of sanctions, the costly African campaign will ruin Premier Mussolini and that will mean the finish of Italy as a great European power.

Laval to Make Plea

It is said that when Britain's foreign secretary, Sir Samuel Hoare, arrives here to confer with Premier Pierre Laval, the latter, providing he is still in power, which is by no means certain, will try above all to convince his British colleague of the gravity of the situation, pointing out that the complete military and economic collapse of Italy will be just as bad for England as for France and might even entail the necessity of the British army coming to the rescue of the Italians in Ethiopia to prevent a military disaster which would be dangerous to prestige of the white race in Africa.

The British, it is believed in well-informed circles here, are fully aware of the essential weaknesses of the Fascist regime and the military difficulties which Marshal Pietro Badoglio's army is encountering and, no more than the French, do they wish the complete ruin of Italy.

Idabel Man Given Life for Murder

Julius Bohannon Pleads Guilty to Slaying of Two Officers

IDABEL, Okla.—(AP)—Julius Bohannon, accused slayer of two McCurtain county officers, pleaded guilty unexpectedly in district court Wednesday after a jury had been selected. Judge George R. Childers sentenced Bohannon to life imprisonment for one offense, and to 99 years for the other.

Bohannon received the life sentence for the murder of Deputy Sheriff E. J. Whitten, and the 99-year term for first degree manslaughter in the fatal shooting of W. B. Wilmoth.

The officers were slain August 8, 1934, at the home of Mrs. Lucy Rodgers in the Oak Hill community. With another deputy, Bud Stewart, they had gone there to investigate a rumored elopement.

Stewart said that while Whitten and Wilmoth were questioning Bohannon, the latter shot them and fled, firing a Stewart as he ran upon them.

Bohannon was captured June 15, 1935, at Hollis, Okla.

3 Hope Policemen Advanced to $125 Salary Per Month

Increased From $100 to Same Level as Two Others on City Force

MAYOR BREAKS TIE

Albert Graves Casts Deciding Vote When Aldermen Wind Up 4 to 4

Salaries of three Hope policemen were hiked from $100 to $125 per month at a meeting of the city council Tuesday night, putting them on the same salary schedule as two other policemen.

Those affected are: Officers Ward, Beardon and Baker. The salary hike is effective January 1. The salary of Police Chief John W. Ridgill remained the same, $135 per month.

Motion for the salary raise was introduced by Alderman L. A. Keith and before the issue was settled much argument had been heard.

Mayor Breaks Tie

Put to a vote, the salary proposal resulted in a tie, causing Mayor Albert Graves to cast the deciding vote. The mayor joined Aldermen Keith, Carrigan, Henry and Taylor in favoring the increase.

Opposing were: Alderman Anderson, Hamilton, C. Johnson and R. Johnson. New salaries will place the three officers on the same basis as Police-men Stuart and Turner who have been drawing $125 per month since July 1.

William Reeves, Jr., appeared before the council Tuesday night and asked that he be given a job as collector of street tax, city automobile license fees, and to work city prisoners on streets and alleys of Hope.

Mr. Reeves asked for the proposed job on a commission basis, but named no percentage figure, saying he would let the council set the figure. No action was taken.

Extend Police Zone

Alderman L. A. Keith presented a request from Hollis Luck, who asked for police protection at his tourist camp on Highway 67 at the western edge of the city limits. A motion was passed giving the Tourist Camp protection on a trouble case of the city.

Loe Robins presented a petition to the council asking that a present city ordinance be repealed to allow dominoes to be played within a building where beer is sold. Mayor Graves referred the matter to the ordinance committee. The petition was signed by approximately 200 citizens.

Corn-Hog Contract Ready in January

Local Committees Will Establish County Corn and Hog Bases

The 1936-37 corn-hog adjustment contract has been approved and contract applications will be offered to Arkansas farmers in January, Frank R. Stanley, county agent, has been notified by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

The new contract follows closely the recommendations made by producer-representatives and State agricultural specialists in conference early last month in Washington, County Agent Stanley said. Details of the contract soon will be discussed at a meeting of State hog-corn officials, and will be fully explained at local meetings which will be held during the application sign-up campaign in January.

The two-year contract, effective as of December 1, 1935, requires that the signer produce for market in 1936 at least 50 per cent of his market hog base and not more than 100 per cent of his base. If he is to receive the maximum hog adjustment payment, in order to qualify for the corn adjustment payments, the producer must plant at least 25 per cent of his corn base next year. Adjustment payments will be made on a reduction ranging from 10 to 20 per cent of the base, according to the option of the grower.

Corn and hog bases under the new program will be established by appraisal by community committees in accordance with standards prescribed by the secretary. This undertaking, new to commodity adjustment programs, is designed to permit the assignment of equitable bases to all producers regardless of whether or not they have previously participated in corn-hog programs or farmed previously in 1936.

An additional major change from the 1935 contract is the provision that an acreage equal to the land held out of corn production, known as the “ad-

After Two Years of Repeal---

BY WILLIS THORNTON, NEA Service Staff Correspondent

AMERICA puts another experiment under the microscope. Repeal of national prohibition, launched with huzzas by an enormous majority, is coming under an increasing fire by reviving dry organizations, which have not hesitated to predict return of prohibition in five years. With two years of operation of the control systems established when repeal went into effect, it is possible to back off and sum up what has happened. Wide differences in the way the picture looks to different people bear out that the liquor problem is a perennial, never completely solved. Now, surveying the two years since December 5, 1933, when repeal went into effect:

THE WETS SAY:

THE legal liquor business has created hundreds of thousands of honest jobs. Breweries alone claim 67,000 jobs in 675 breweries, and 600,000 in distilling. In the 225,000 places now selling alcoholic drinks in the U. S., in the 300 distilleries and 1000 wineries now operating, many thousands of jobs have also been created.

BADLY needed revenue for state and local governments has risen to well above $600,000,000 in the two years. And yet the total amount being spent for liquor is probably not much greater than was spent for bootleg liquor during prohibition, with no tax return.

THE bloody beer racket has been entirely eliminated. While liquor bootlegging has not yet been entirely scotched, it has been greatly reduced, both in volume and profits. Steadily growing stocks of good liquor, recently cut tariff from Canada, and demands for lower liquor taxes will tend to lower prices and further cut the bottom out of the bootleg trade.

DRINKING has become decent and respectable, and hence more easily supervised in the open than in the hidden speakeasies of prohibition days.

A MARKET has been provided for millions of bushels of farmers' grains and other products, while glass, lumber, and transportation by train and truck show a definite stimulation. The hotel industry has been saved from ruin, and the advertising industry has felt a pronounced pickup.

THE trend to preference for beer instead of hard liquor, marked before prohibition, has been resumed. Some 50,000,000 barrels of beer will have been made this year, far ahead of the 1919 year, though still well below 1914, the banner beer year.

Consumption of hard liquor is running only 64 per cent of the pre-prohibition peak, judged from figures on withdrawals of legal liquor from distilleries and warehouses. This indicates a resumption of the trend to beer instead of hard liquor which was marked during the years just before prohibition, but was interrupted when prohibition turned drinkers almost exclusively to “hard” liquor.

THE DRYS SAY:

DESPITE the tremendous legal output, bootlegging has not been suppressed. From 30 to 40 per cent of all liquor is still bootlegged. Every city knows it still has speakeasies. Counterfeiting of labels and bottles goes on.

CHAIN saloons under brewery domination, advertising aimed at creating new drinkers and increasing drinking, revived political influence of brewers and distillers—all these evils of pre-prohibition days are returning, especially since the NKA codes were outlawed last year.

SEVEN cents of every consumer's dollar (an estimated $3,500,000,000 a year) is going for liquor or beer. Such a vast slice of the national income would bring greater social benefits if spent for almost anything else.

ALCOHOLISM deaths climbed to 3655 in 1934. A last year for which figures are available, an increase of 258 over the previous year, indicating increased drinking.

MANY people who never drank before have been persuaded to take it up, especially women, whose presence at bars and whose serving of liquor and beer at home is a distinct step backward. Gain of 14 per cent in number of federal patients at a famous “cure” is cited.

DRUNKEN driving has increased alarmingly, and figures from many states and communities show it is increasing faster than are the number of cars on the road. Increasing mechanization of life makes any drinking of liquor an increasing menace.

THE number of federal prisoners, even those sentenced on liquor charges, has not decreased, as claimed, despite the fact that 13,000 cases were quashed when repeal went into effect. Any local community or city can see that congestion in its courts has not been relieved, while a large income from liquor fines has been sacrificed.

SIGNS of resurrection of a “whisky trust” are again seen. Senator Clark estimates that 80 per cent of the liquor-distilling business already has fallen into the hands of nine concerns. And the government is still spending $8,000,000 a year in liquor law enforcement.

Goodfellows Drive to Start Friday

Legion Committees Will Canvass City for Christmas Offers

Committees of American Legion members will begin their annual canvass of Hope Friday in behalf of the Goodfellows Christmas Cheer Fund. The Legion assumed the duties of the old Goodfellows organization several years ago, and annually at this time ask for donations in the name of the city's poor and their children.

As last year, the Legion will ask Mrs. Arch Moore to supervise purchases.

All members are urgently requested to attend as plans for the association's holiday activities and other business matters will be discussed.

Stratosphere Torpedo

BERLIN.—(AP)—Experiments are being made with a stratosphere rocket bomb which, if successful, might lead to a new and more terrible kind of warfare.

It is claimed that this missile could be shot from Berlin to London, Paris, Warsaw or Praha and land within three miles of its objective.

Military circles say that if such rockets can be perfected they could be sent into enemy territory by hand-dredge, demoralizing the population.

Bulletins

ATLANTA, Ga.—(AP)—Governor Eugene Talmadge headed for New York Thursday to broadcast his “Georgia's Answer to Roosevelt” while the president conferred at Warm Springs with other political leaders of the Cracker state.

NEW YORK.—(AP)—Postmaster General Farley said Thursday that postal receipts, “one of the most reliable barometers of business conditions,” increased approximately 41 million dollars in the fiscal year ending June 30.

NASHVILLE, Tenn.—(AP)—Warden A. W. Neely said Thursday that George Wilbur Moss, 23, one of the three convicts who escaped from the state penitentiary here Tuesday, was captured Wednesday night at Tazewell, in upper east Tennessee, but his two companions escaped.

Chinese Own Plan of Reform Is Late

Japanese General Orders Central War Minister to Leave North

PEIPING, China.—(AP)—The revival of agitation for North China autonomy (independence) and a sudden renewal of Japanese army activity in this area threatened Thursday night (Oriental time) to block Nanking's 11th hour effort to retain its hold on North China by a broad program of reforms.

The Japanese army, it was learned in authoritative circles, has warned General Ho Ya Ching, was minister of the central (Nanking) government, to leave North China immediately.

General Ho came north to supervise the installation of new Nanking-approved administrative machinery.

Jersey Governor May Help Bruno

New York Journal Hears Hoffman Has Obtained New Information

NEW YORK.—(AP)—The New York Evening Journal said Thursday it had learned from a source close to Governor Hoffman of New Jersey that he had obtained new information which may save Bruno Richard Hauptmann from the electric chair “or at least delay his execution indefinitely.”

The Journal said it was reported that information in the governor's possession may become the basis for “the most shocking story ever brought before the American people.”

More Indicted in Louisiana Tax Case

Seymour Weiss and 3 Others Named by Federal Grand Jury

NEW ORLEANS, La.—(AP)—Four men, one a close political associate of the late Huey P. Long, and two officials of a quarry company which did a huge business with the Louisiana Highway Department, were indicted late Wednesday by a federal Grand Jury here for alleged conspiracy to defeat income tax payments.

Indicted were: Seymour Weiss, president of the New Orleans Dock Board, named in two previous income tax indictments; R. E. Wilson, Little Rock, former president, and Chauncey D. Nichols, Oklahoma City, former vice president of the Louisiana Quarry Company; and H. F. Schiff, Oklahoma City, public accountant.

The four are charged with conspiring to defeat income tax payments assertedly owed by the quarry company and the late Sam M. Boustey, purchasing agent for the State Highway Department, and his wife.

3-Cornered Fight Rages With Drys, Wets, Government

No Letup in Dispute—18th Amendment ‘Killed’ December 5, 1933

DRINKING IS LESS

Liquor Sales Only 64% of 1917 Despite 25% Increase in Population

By D. HAROLD OLIVER

Associated Press Correspondent WASHINGTON.—(AP)—The historical controversy over prohibition raged again Thursday—the second anniversary of repeal of the 18th amendment. One side praised repeal as a success. The other, disagreeing sharply, predicted a comeback for prohibition.

While W. H. Stetson, executive director of Repeal Associations, and others, contended that there had been a marked decline in lawlessness, the Anti-Saloon League of America began “a new crusade” for prohibition.

Saying that “President Roosevelt should condemn ‘violation’ of his ‘pledge’ that the saloon would never return,” the league convention in St. Louis also demanded the abolition of the use of intoxicants at all White House and public functions.

In the absence of the president, there was no immediate comment here Thursday. It was recalled that accounts of formal White House functions have told of the serving of light American vintage wines. Beer has been served at some informal gatherings.

Practically Teetotalers

Friends of President and Mrs. Roosevelt said they are known almost as teetotalers, and they never drink or serve strong liquor.

In an interview, Stetson looked back over the past year, when several states join the ranks of those which permit legal sale. The number stands at 41, compared with 19 before prohibition.

“In states where local control of the traffic has been established,” Stetson said, “poison alcohol deaths are now practically unknown, bootlegging is diminishing, and the states are receiving a large part of the revenue which, during national prohibition, went to the support of bootleggers and their associated criminals.”

Disagreeing with this, F. Scott McBride, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, declared that the reopening of the liquor traffic has been a “miserable failure.”

A league resolution attacked what it termed the “tragic results of repeal, an enormous increase in the sale of intoxicants, with the consequent results of an increase in drunkenness, especially among women and youths, shocking traffic fatalities, and the prevalence of crimes of violence.”

McBride joined Bishop James Cannon, Jr., of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in predicting a new dry era by 1945.

The Government's Pledge

James M. Doran, administrator of the Distilled Spirits Institute, contended that repeal had “brought definite improvement in the nation's revenue with a corresponding reduction in lawlessness.”

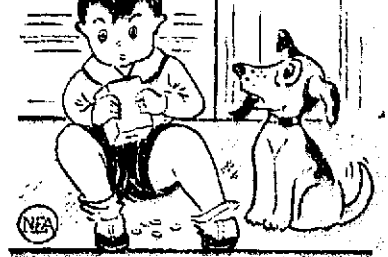

Doran promised that the liquor industry would adhere strictly to the new federal control act. He predicted a tendency toward lower prices and improved quality. The coming reduction in duties on Canadian liquor is expected to have a decided effect in this direction, he said.

Treasury statisticians said the public was consuming less legal hard liquor, the rate being only 64 per cent of the pre-prohibition peak of 1917, (notwithstanding a 25 per cent increase in the population since then). No figures were available on the consumption of “bootleg.”

Doran's organization placed federal revenues from liquor taxes at $129,665,824 for the first repeal twelve-month.

The new Federal Alcohol Administration, which succeeds the old control setup outlawed with the NRA, observed repeal's second birthday by pushing efforts to register all wholesalers by March 1, and to complete new standards and new branding and advertising rules.

The Truth About Diet

By DR. MORRIS FISHER
Editor, National American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

Bran Diet May Supply Too Much Roughage for Your Own Good

Not so many years ago a craze for bran or horse food, swept the country. Newspapers and magazines were full of recipes for making bran biscuits, bran muffins, bran gems, bran puddings, and otherwise disguising this coarse and, to many people, unappealing material.

Now, the only real reason for bran in the diet is the fact that it supplies a good deal of what is called roughage.

As foods have become more and more sophisticated, there is a greater tendency to make them easier to eat. They are softened by removal of fibrous materials and cellulose, which give the bowels something to catch on to.

According to the promoters of the roughage idea, it is necessary to load the bowels with all kinds of indigestible and unassimilable substances, so that they will be filled with an irritating bulk. The bowels then are stimulated to empty, and as a result, they say, constipation and phlegmatic habits will be overcome.

A certain amount of indigestible residue is always necessary to normal action of the bowels, but this is a long way from violently loading a weak bowel with a large mass of unnecessary work.

It is a long step, also, from taking roughage or bulk in the form of substances which will irritate the tissues and set up a reaction which may eventually lead to colds or inflammation of the large bowel.

There are many ways in which a phlegmatic bowel may be stimulated to action. All sorts of food products have been developed which can provide the necessary bulk without irritation.

Furthermore, once a colitis is produced by an excess of the bran or roughage habit, it is exceedingly difficult to bring it under control. Many months of carefully chosen diets may be necessary to permit healing.

Certain food combinations are known as low residue diets because they provide very small amounts of indigestible material. These are foods, for example, such as lean meat, rice, white bread, cooked and strained cereals, cooked eggs, butter, cream, fruit juices, the puffed cereals, lamb, chicken, oysters, liver, white potatoes, pureed beans, peas, lentils, artichoke hearts, and the various strained foods that are made especially for infants and invalids.

These vegetables, cottage cheese, ice cream, and gelatin may also be used in the diet of those who should not take roughage.

To provide these people with suitable amounts of non-irritating bulk, it is possible to provide any of the various Japanese seaweed or agar preparations which have the faculty of collecting fluid in the bowel and developing bulk without irritation.

A Book a Day

By Bruce Catton

If you have ever wondered who started the idea that the poet must be the victim of a strange disease which makes him scowl, sigh, get drunk, brood darkly, and go into irrational trances, you might profitably read "Byron: The Years of Fame," by Peter Quennell. For Byron seems to have been the lad who set the style.

Mr. Quennell studies him through the four or five years when he was, as you might say, the Rudolph Valentino of English letters; the years which followed publication of "Childe Harold" when England forgot all about the Napoleonic wars to gaze at this handsome, cynical, restless, perverse, and remarkably gifted young poet.

Byron was all the things that a poet is popularly supposed to be. He wrote, seemingly, by pure inspiration; he was forever consumed by some secret sorrow or other; he looked romantic, knew it, and tried to live up to it; he had love affairs by the dozen and got mad notes by the ton; he ruined a whole series of happy marriages, including his own, and he was a creature of violet and contradictory moods.

With it all, however, he was a real poet; and Mr. Quennell remarks that so many of his imitators leave that one ingredient out when they strive valiantly to be Byronic.

Naturally, a book about such a man can be a fascinating affair. Mr. Quennell has done a fine job on this eccentric genius, and his book is one of the most readable biographies of the fall.

Published by Viking, it sells for $3.50.

Your Children

By Olive Roberts Barton

"What is it, Mary? You seem so quiet these days."

"Well, then, eat your lunch. You haven't touched a bite scarcely for weeks."

Mary tried but finally said, "I can't eat anything. I'm not a bit hungry."

Mary's mother put her on codliver oil and made her drink more milk. But when she had her weighed one day she discovered that the child had lost five pounds.

She took her to the doctor and he went over her thoroughly. "I can't find much wrong," he said. "Her tonsils are out and unless she has some infection somewhere else, she should be in good health."

He gave directions about more sleep and cutting down on night work. But when Mary heard that she protested, "I can't cut my night work, doctor. I'd get lost."

Rivalry between the two girls. "Why, my dear, you are second in your class now," said her mother. "I'm sure Miss Crane will help us out. A few weeks would rest you so much."

"No," said Mary firmly. "I have to study. I have to study all I can. I don't want the doctor to write to Miss Crane."

Her mother was perplexed. Mary had spoken with more spirit than she had ever shown before. The doctor nodded and said, "All right, Mary. I won't do anything you don't want."

When they had left he thought a minute and then went to the telephone. He asked Miss Crane if she would stop in for a minute on her way home. Certainly she would. So the two of them had a conference.

"Could you," asked the doctor, "cooperate with me in a little experiment? You may let the principal in on it. Was Mary Smith very close to the top last month?"

"Yes, I had a hard time deciding which of three girls would get first seat. There wasn't a tenth of one per cent difference in their averages. Julie was first and Martha second; Mary third. Last month Mary was first."

Putting Mary at Head of Class. "Then could you, by a bit of chicanery, make Mary first this week when grades are in? I want to figure just how many of those physical lapses are due to worry. In this case I must say that I feel it is jealousy. Do Mary and Julie get along?"

"No. There has been rivalry ever since they started to school."

"I'll explain to Julie's mother and Martha's, too," said the doctor. "They are both splendid people. They will understand."

Mary was second and Julie first. But the conspirators allowed Mary first place. Instantly Mary began to eat, to sing and of course to gain. Then the doctor sent for her mother. "I have discovered what ails your daughter," he said. "You can do much by giving her a course in sportsmanship. Plain jealousy undermines more health than bad stomachs."

A week later it was explained that a mistake had been made by a small margin. Julie smiled and said she didn't mind. She would keep second seat. But Mary again refused to consent. Possibly all her life she will be taking pills—for jealousy.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

After the death of her parents, lovely DANA WESTBROOK came from abroad to make her home with a grandmother she had never seen.

Dana's half-sister, NANCY WALLACE, resents Dana's coming. Dana's grandmother loves her young granddaughter and will make a brilliant marriage and is elated when rich RONALD MOORE falls in love with her. But Dana, meanwhile, has been attracted to "DR. SCOTT STANLEY."

Nancy makes her love for Ronald behind an antagonistic attitude. PAULA LONG, desperately in love with Scott, watches anxiously as his interest in Dana develops.

During a storm, Dana is forced to stay in Scott's cottage until the early hours of morning. Ronald Moore sees them on the way to her home and misunderstands. He stays away. The rift widens. When Scott telephones Dana, she has the feeling that a new and thrilling interest is entering her life.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XIV GRANDMOTHER CAMERON halted Dana. "Going out again?" she asked.

"Yes, Grandmother. I'm going to have dinner out."

Grandmother Cameron moved on up the stairs. "Have a good time," she said pleasantly.

Dana assured her, "I shall."

Upstairs Mrs. Cameron made her way to her sister's room. "What ever is the matter with that child?" she demanded. "Rushing down the stairs like a whirlwind! What's all about?" She waited for confirmation of her own hopes.

"In my day," Aunt Ellen said primly, "when girls got excited and lost their polite people said they were in love."

"Humph! So you think Dana's in love?"

"I didn't say that," Aunt Ellen demurred cautiously. "I haven't noticed anything strange about her. Dana seems self-possessed and sensible when you compare her with most of these flighty girls."

"So she does. Just the same, she almost knocked me over. Running pell-mell down the stairs, and fairly singing out that she was having dinner out. What's so exciting about that? Hasn't she been out to dinner several times a week almost ever since she came here? Not counting the times I didn't know about."

It was the longest speech Grandmother Cameron had made in a long while. Aunt Ellen stared. "That sounds very much as though the child might be falling in love," Aunt Ellen conceded.

"And why not? Why not? Isn't it natural she should? You couldn't find a nicer young man than Ronald—not if you searched the world over."

She walked to the window. The next minute she called sharply. "Ellen, come here!"

Aunt Ellen answered the peremptory summons.

young man is a stranger to me." "But not to me!" Mrs. Cameron said. "It's that young scamp, Scott Stanley. Think of his audacity in coming here! Furthermore, I've been hearing things about him. He's a regular rogue among women, stealing their hearts and making sure he keeps his own. I haven't had my ears open for nothing. Well, I'll soon break this up!"

Her voice trembled from anger and disappointment. It was a mood that boded no good to anyone, her sister knew. Aunt Ellen's heart went out to Dana.

The years had changed Agatha in some respects. Aunt Ellen thought, but the indomitable will, the fighting fire were still there.

"Sit down," Aunt Ellen urged. "Don't get so excited. Why should you worry just because she goes out to dinner with him?"

"Why does she want to be going out with him? And why isn't he with Paula Long, who's been waiting for him ever since he finished high school? Paula's money would start him in his medical practice. What does he mean, dirt poor and still starting out, hanging around Dana who's as poor as a church mouse, too?"

Unanswerable logic. Ellen Cameron sat miserably, contemplating her sister's words. Why hadn't Scott (she thought of the name gently) done the sensible thing and turned to his wealthy Paula? If he could look into the past, he would know there was more than one reason why he wouldn't be well come in this home. And then he probably would muddle things for Dana. Dana was beautiful and poised, well-dressed to rule graciously over a splendid home.

"I'm growing mercenary, too," thought gentle Aunt Ellen unhappily. It was almost impossible to live in a house with her sister and not be infected by the possessive virus.

MRS. CAMERON endured it as long as she could—seeing the shabby gray roadster parked in front of her home, replacing Ronald's large and expensive one.

The gray car was an affront. A defiance. A challenge. Mrs. Cameron accepted that challenge one afternoon. She "took the bull by the horns." (In her own language.) and drove her shaft home so deliberately, so diplomatically that Dana did not at first feel the full force of the blow.

"A very nice young man," Mrs. Cameron said as Dana came into the house and Scott's car moved away.

Dana's eyes brightened. "He is nice," she said.

"It's a pity," Mrs. Cameron mused aloud, "that he hasn't a penny. I haven't anything but plans and ambitions."

Dana did not reply, meeting her grandmother's eyes steadily.

"Sit down, please, Dana."

The girl sat down. She was still sitting there when Nancy passed through the hall half an hour later and for a long while afterward Nancy heard her grandmother's voice droning away, muted to a strangely quiet, tolerant tone.

Aunt Ellen had warned her sister, "Don't drive or threaten Dana. I don't believe she would stand for it."

Neither did Mrs. Cameron believe Dana would be moved by threats. She planned to use them only as a last effort. Threats, if necessary, but persuasion first.

It was not a pretty picture—the picture of poverty her grandmother drew for Dana. And there were elements of truth in the portrayal that startled even such a courageous girl.

"I know you're not in love with Scott Stanley," Mrs. Cameron said vigorously. "You're too sensible. But there's danger in seeing too much of him."

It was easy, she went on, to fall in love with an attractive man if he were not eligible, the safest way was to stop seeing him. A poor man, marrying a girl with out money, was as much to be pitied as a poor girl who was fool enough to marry a man who was not established.

"Scott Stanley hasn't a chance to succeed as a doctor if he ties him self up with a wife who can't help him," Mrs. Cameron stated firmly. "But can't a girl help a man in some other way—if she hasn't money?" Dana ventured. She was feeling very sober, very unhappy.

"Kind words never helped a poor doctor yet," Mrs. Cameron declared. "What that young man needs is a number of paying patients. If he married Paula Long, he could stop worrying."

"Why?" asked Dana.

"Paula is independent," Mrs. Cameron answered. "Besides, she has wealthy relatives who are clan-ish. Like most of us in this city just seeing that all the babies in that family arrive in proper order and taking care of their bumps and bruises—not to mention the nervous breakdowns rich people can afford to have—would keep a young doctor in funds for the rest of his life."

Dana protested, but there was little heart in her words. "Doctors are supposed to win their clientele, not inherit it."

"Hut! Much you know about such things, my child. There's rarely such a thing as a triumph of sheer ability these days!"

Nancy heard Dana go in her room a little later and shut the door. "Grand made it unpleasant for her, seeing Scott so much," Nancy mused. "And that isn't all. She has some more tricks up her sleeve to use if necessary."

Elsewhere Ronnie was receiving the silent congratulations of scores of mothers who were taking heart again, now that the young millionaire was once more heart-free.

"Ronnie was a little too smart for old Mrs. Cameron," they said. "Guess he saw which way the wind was blowing and got out before she had him tied up tight with a wedding rope."

Mrs. Cameron, sitting on her porch the next afternoon, looked up and saw Scott's car stopping. Her brows drew together ominous ly.

Potato Control Act Is Put Into Effect

Crop Allotments Already Have Been Assigned to the Various States

Provisions of the Potato Act of 1935 as they apply to potatoes harvested and sold on or after December 1, 1935, became effective at midnight on November 30, according to Frank R. Stanley, county agent.

Potatoes harvested and sold are to be handled in accordance with the allotment, packaging and stamp features of the act, according to information received from J. H. Heckman, state potato agent in charge of administering the potato program in Arkansas.

Growers and handlers who sponsored the Potato Act from its inception more than a year ago are watching with interest the initial application of its provisions in the states of Florida and Texas and in southern California.

First potatoes to come within the provisions of the act will be harvested and marketed from these sections during the month of December. Signing of potato growers' applications and making of grower allotments have been in progress for some weeks in the early states.

National and state tax-exempt sales allotments were announced November 1. There is not much relationship between these allotments and the production estimates of total or state crops due to the wide variation in percentage of potatoes sold. During past years some states sold as low as 16 per cent, whereas states in which production is largely commercial have sold as high as 95 per cent.

Administrative rulings, particularly with reference to grower allotments, packaging regulations, and records to be kept by growers and handlers have been simplified and shaped to follow as nearly as possible the established customs within the industry and be applicable with a minimum of effort.

Members of the National Potato Advisory Committee—composed of growers from early, intermediate, and late crop potato sections—met in Washington to review the regulations and instructions. Import quotas, restricting the quantity of foreign potatoes to be sold under tax-exempt provisions of the act, are being prepared.

Forms for allotment applications will soon be available in states where signing is not already in progress, according to announcements of the potato section of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

The national sales allotment of 226,000,000 bushels and the individual grower allotments into which this will be distributed by state and county committees will not be taxed. Tax-exempt stamps will be given to each grower for his allotment. Arrangements are now being completed in the early states where harvesting will begin in December, which will eliminate delay and confusion in placing the stamp and packaging provisions into operation.

Potatoes have advanced in price since the Agricultural Adjustment Administration made its surplus diversion proposal in October, and it now appears that unless conditions change growers in only a few producing areas will avail themselves of the diversion program and marketing agreements for the 1935 crop. The Adjustment Administration, however, is proceeding with hearings so that marketing agreements may be available should there be a later need and demand for them from the surplus late states.

Freezes in the West removed a portion of the surplus which the Adjustment Administration had planned to remove from the market through diversion plans.

One lucky woman who expects to go to Florida for January and February is laying in a supply of polishes and lipsticks in all sorts of exotic shades.

"I'll have plenty of time to beautify myself, so I'm planning to use a different shade of polish and lipstick every day," she says. "I'm taking royal reds, bright reds, for the first few weeks, and East Indian, orange shades to wear later on when my skin has become brown."

Remember, of course, that suntan oil or lotion should head the list of beauty preparations you'll need for the south. A rich tissue cream, a good hand lotion and something to use on your hair several times a week must be next. Then use your imagination to pick cosmetics that will help you to dramatize your best features.

If you are over-weight, begin right now to lose a few pounds, so you'll look slim and attractive in your new bathing suits. If you are going to get a permanent wave, plan reconconditioning treatments and increase the amount of time you spend brushing your hair each day.

Getting On To Christmas

It's getting on to Christmas! The old charm is in the air. The lips of love are whispering their secrets everywhere. And now the wide world over the tender hearts and true. Are plotting all the pretty deeds their pocket books can do. It's getting on to Christmas, rich and poor and high and low. Are gazing in the windows now with eyes that fairly glow. And all the wide world over the lovely grandmas gray. Are busy knitting pretty shawls they're going to give away. Oh, there are weeks when selfishness and bitterness are rife. And days when hate and malice seem to mar the charms of life. But getting on to Christmas all the old smiles reappear. And the bustling world turns kindly at the closing of the year. —Selected.

Good Crowd Turns Out for Amateurs

Interest in Fair Park Boxing and Wrestling Matches Picks Up

Fair park wrestling shows which had dropped to a low ebb the past four weeks were partly revived Wednesday night with a mixed program of amateur wrestling and boxing.

Two professional wrestling matches also were on the card.

Approximately 175 fans turned out the largest attendance in the past four weeks—giving rise to the belief that Hope fans desire amateur performances about as well as professional fights of the type that has been demonstrated in recent weeks.

The show opened with a fierce three-round boxing match between Batling Siki, clowning Hope negro, and Nathan Logan, buckyard mauler.

With a shower of punches to the face and head, Logan had Siki bloodied and groggy before the first round was up.

In the second round Logan landed a cross a hard right to the face that sent Siki sailing through the ropes.

Siki picked himself up from the ground and climbed back into the ring at the count of nine. Logan continued his savage attack and sent Siki to the floor again for the count of nine.

At this point Referee Will Ed (Wolfie) Waller stopped the fight and gave Logan the decision as a technical knockout.

Next on the program was a 20-minute amateur wrestling match between Bert Mauldin and Carl Woodruff, both local products. From the ringside it appeared that both put out all they had. They battled to a draw.

The match was pleasing to the fans.

In the semi-final professional wrestling bout, Billy McEuen took two straight falls over William McEmmis. Nothing exciting happened.

Bob Montgomery won over Donald McNaught in the final event. Montgomery forced McNaught to yell "calf" with a punishing scissors in the first round.

McNaught came back, roughed it up a bit in the second round, then Montgomery retaliated with a body back bend that ended the show.

Did you know that dipping stock, or haphazard woods burning, controls ticks? There are actually fewer ticks in shady woods than in open burned woods expose the sun.

Did you know that Boll Weevils hibernates near the cotton fields, very seldom in the woods? In the spring it seldom travels over 200 feet to the fields. The Quail (Bob White) is the natural enemy of the Boll Weevil. Woods burning destroys the young, nests, and cover of the bird.

Did you know that Man causes 98 per cent of the forest fires in Arkansas?

Bankers Informed F. D. Debt Is Safe

Nation Could Stand 55 to 70 Billions, They Told President

WARM SPRINGS, Ga., (AP)—President Roosevelt suggested Tuesday that a look at the financial journals during the banking crisis of 1933 might be helpful in seeking to identify the bankers who said the nation could stand an emergency debt of 55 to 70 billion dollars.

He was asked what bankers he was referring to when he said in his Atlanta speech that some leading financiers had told him such a huge emergency debt could be safely incurred.

Mr. Roosevelt said he had a list of bankers and some letters but had received no request for making them public and had no intention of doing so.

The president kept his regular semi-weekly press interview on the roadside en route to his Fine mountain cottage.

He said he expected to have most of the speech to be delivered next Monday before the American Farm Bureau Federation at Chicago ready before he leaves here Sunday but probably not entirely.

BACKWARD, TURN BACKWARD—
O TIME IN THY FLIGHT

BAH

STEPHEN, WHAT ON EARTH IS THE MATTER? YOU'RE MUTTERING TO YOURSELF LIKE A MADMAN

MAD? WOMAN, I
PASSED THAT STAGE LONG AGO!
I'M NOW AT THE
BOILING POINT

YOU NEEDN'T
SCREAM
AT ME!
I'M NOT DEAF

BUT, CONFOUND IT—I
GO OVER TO MY CLASS
TO DELIVER AN EIGHT O'CLOCK LECTURE, AND
I MEET THE STUDENTS
COMING BACK FROM
LUNCH! IMAGINE

IT'S BOOTS' FAULT! HER DATES, AS THEY COME IN, ALWAYS STOP AND TURN THE CLOCK BACK AN HOUR OR SO "I'VE WATCHED THEM" AND
THEY'VE DONE IT SO OFTEN THAT
NOW THE INTERNAL THING RUNS
BACKWARDS

WASH TUBBS

Easy Explains

By CRANE

MURDER
SOLVED!
SLIPPERY BIGGER
GUILTY, SAYS
EASY.

JOHN SKEET, ONCE
THOUGHT GUILTY,
IS, IN REALITY,
SPECIAL INVESTIGATOR
FOR PARIMUTUAL
LIFE.

BUT I—GEE
WIZ! I THOUGHT
SLIPPERY BIGGER
THAT FAKE
TREASURE TO MAKE US DEAD.

THAT'S WHAT HE WANTED US TO THINK.
HE PURPOSELY CREATED A RUMSPUS OVER
THAT FAKE TREASURE TO MAKE US
THINK HIS LIFE WAS IN DANGER.

WHICH WAY, GUZ?

THAT WAY,
OOP, T'WARD
LEM!

THEN HE DISAPPEARED, LEAVING RED INK SPOTS ON HIS BED...DRIFTED HERE ON AN INFLATED INNER TUBE, AND, ON THE FOLLOWING NIGHT, RETURNED TO
CALAMITY ISLE IN THIS OUTBOARD, AND SHOT
HIS BROTHER.

NATURALLY, SINCE WE THOUGHT HE WAS DEAD,
WE DIDN'T SUSPECT
HIM OF THE CRIME.

IF NOTHING ELSE WORKS
ON THAT CRABBY OLD
MAN, KINDNESS MAY
SOFTEN HIM A BIT!!

PLANTING THIS CHRISTMAS TREE IS A SWELL IDEA... HE PROBABLY WON'T NO-
TICE IT'S HERE... THEN,
ON CHRISTMAS EVE, WE CAN DECORATE IT AN'
SURPRISE HIM!!

THINK
IS DEEP ENOUGH?

MAKE IT A LITTLE DEEP-
ER, TO TAKE THE ROOTS!
HEY, DID YOU HEAR SOME-THING?

YEAH, BUT I THOUGHT I WAS JUST IMAGINING!
THERE IT
GOES AGAIN

EVERY
PICK FALLS,
I HEAR A
METALLIC

LOOK, NUTTY! IT'S AN IRON
BOX!!

GOSH, MAYBE THIS IS

A Treat for Windy

By COWAN

THAT LAZY LUMMOX AINT WORTH HIS SALT!
I BEEN A WEEK TRYIN' TGET HIM T' THROW OUT THIS BASKET OF OLD SHOES! ALL HE DOES IS STAND AROUND AND BLOW—
LISTEN TO HIM, OUT THERE!!

YES SIR, CATFISH, WE AUTHORITIES GENERALLY
AGREE THAT MEN EAT TOO
MUCH—TWO MEALS A DAY
WOULD BE PLenty!

NOT FO ME—NO
SAH! AND LIKE
FIVE MEAL A DAY, AT LEAST!

CATFISH, MY BOY, YER
SOFTENIN' UP WHY?
WHEN I WAS SURVEYIN'
THE PUNJAB, WE LOST OUR SUPPLY
TRAIN, FER TWO WEEKS
WE DIDN'T EAT—DID WE GET PANICKY? NO SIR!
WE COULD TAKE IT!

WE TIGHTENED OUR BELTS AND SMILED AT DEATH—AT LAST, IN DESPERATION, WE MADE A STEW
OUT OF OUR BOOTS, AND THAT WAS ONE OF THE MOST DELICIOUS
MEALS I EVER ATE!

OKAY, MR. LEATHER STOMACH—

Beware of this endless chain selling scheme

It is being worked with all kinds of merchandise--especially hosiery and underwear.

WHO WILL HOLD THE SACK?

The Latest in bargain appeals, as offered by these Hy-Jack Peddlers are the new Chain-Selling-Schemes by which merchandise is promised to coupon purchasers for a small cash consideration and a little work.

DO YOU WANT TO BECOME A PEDDLER

and prey upon your friends---if you do try this one---here is a typical promise---made to you by the real slick peddler---

$10 WORTH OF HOSE FOR $1
Looks Good on the Face of it--What?

TRY and figure this---The Slick Peddler offers you a contract with three coupons for $4.00. Here is where you work your friends. You are to sell these coupons to three friends at $1.00 each and WHEN each of these friends send in $3.00 for similar coupon outfits or a total of $9.00 you are supposed to get $10.00 worth of some kind of hose. NOW you have made PEDDLERS out of three friends---and before they can realize anything for their cash they have that "little bit of work" to do---that is "create more Peddlers among their friends"---so on---so on---indefinitely.

IF you do complete this very simple contract---and your hose are delivered you are out $1.00 net, your three friends are out $4.00 each---or $12.00---and this firm has collected $13.00. WHO really pays for your hose? The firm or your friends?

SUPPOSE the firm fails---after having paid for your $10.00 worth of hose out of the $13.00 collected? How could this firm refund the $12.00 invested by your friends? What about the running expenses of an office and salaries of this firm---

Who Would Hold The Sack?

IF the practice and policy of the Government in barring these Schemes from the mails is upheld by the courts, what might happen to the firm should it be denied the use of the mails? If the firm should quit voluntarily, What Then?

IT IS NOT BUSINESS SENSE to expect a firm of this kind to give each of its customers $10.00 worth of hose for $1.00. You can NOT take out of any business more than is put into it.

AGAIN---Beware of these Endless Chain Schemes---there are several varieties being offered today.

Warning

from the

Chief of POLICE

to the Citizens
and Housewives
of

HOPE

This is a warning to beware of Strangers posing as solicitors, salesmen or inspectors, seeking admittance to your homes. It is given in the hopes of protecting the citizens of this community.

Strangers should not be admitted to your homes until their Credentials have been checked up and verified and that you are sure they are local people... representatives of local business firms.

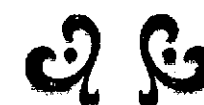

In many cases the person calling at your home representing himself or herself as a solicitor, sales agent, meter reader or inspector is a thief, house prowler, or a "spotter" for such crooks... just getting the "lowdown" on the premises for future references.

Beware of the Crook who goes about renting rooms, or houses willing to tender you a check as the advance rental payment... this check is for more than the initial rent and he secures the difference in CASH... and that is the last you hear from him.

Do not pay cash in advance on an order as too often the customer never receives anything for his money.

Do not issue checks to a Stranger on an order as many times these checks have been "altered" and later cashed by an innocent party.

Minnesota Looks Good for 1936 Also

Famed Gopher Team Undeclared for Last Three Seasons, 24 Games

By D. R. MACKENZIE
Associated Press Correspondent
MINNEAPOLIS.—(AP)—Minnesota's Golden Gopher football team, the team presumably "wrecked" by injury and injury but undefeated for the third straight season, threatens to stretch its 24-game winning streak through the 1936 campaign.

Undeclared champion of the nation's gridiron in 1934 and claimant to the mythical title again, Minnesota already is talking of another offensive to worry the opposition next fall.

Despite the loss of many stars from the unbeaten 1935 Gopher crew, the prospects are decidedly encouraging.

Undeclared in 3 Years
MINNEAPOLIS.—(AP)—Eleven University of Minnesota football veterans have set up a record, at least of Gopher gridmen.

They played through three seasons undefeated while wearing the maroon and gold.

The graduating players who helped Minnesota through its game winning streak that began in 1932 and carried through the 1935 season are:

Capt. Glenn Seidel, quarterback; Sheldon Beise, fullback; Babe Levoir, George Rennick, Mal Eiken and George Roscoe, halfbacks; Dale Rennebohm, Dick Smith, Vernon Oech, Frank Daller and Bill Freimuth, linemen.

For head coach Bernie Bierman and his staff composed of Dr. George Houser, Lowell (Red) Dawson and Bert Baston.

The Fullback Problem
One of the paramount questions is who will be the next fullback to succeed Sheldon Beise, the graduating line-smasher who carried on in the manner of his predecessors, Joe Starn and Nagurski, whom he beat in yardage gained while he was best known for his blocking.

Stan Kostka, the burly fullback who alternated with Beise in 1934, had more drive but Beise proved himself the better blocker.

Whitman Rork, a reserve, may be cast in Beise's shoes, and though it may be surprising to some, young Rudy Gmitro, a 168-pound halfback who runs like lightning, may get the call. He played that part in practice quite a lot this year until he ran wild against Michigan as a halfback.

Hausner, a Gopher alumnus, who has coached the two famous Minnesota lines of 1934 and 1935, will have to scout around for a center to succeed Dale Rennebohm, one of the Big Ten's best this year. Hanson and Svendsen probably will get the nod unless an

Substitute Ready for Processing Tax

Wallace Asserts That AAA Is Prepared for Possible Court Defeat

CHICAGO.—(AP)—Speaking enthusiastically of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration here Wednesday, Secretary of Agriculture Wallace declared: "I venture to say that no matter what party is in power, something of the sort will continue."

"It has worked better than anticipated," Farmer co-operation has been whole-hearted.

He spoke at the 36th annual International Livestock Show.

Admitting the possibility that the United States Supreme Court may invalidate all or part of the AAA, the secretary said that substitutes already have been prepared to enable the AAA to continue to control the nation's farming industry.

Substitutes that he mentioned are:

1. Raise the money for acreage control by a general sales tax.
2. Raise it by higher income taxes.
3. Control production by compulsion, giving each farmer a quota and taxing each farmer if he markets more than his quota.
4. A combination of stabilization purchases and loans to farmers on commodities in years of large crops and low prices. Given an initial capital of $1,000,000,000, perhaps more, a government agency might offer loans above the market price which has been done with the 1933 corn crop, provided that borrowers agree to reduce acreage by some specified amount the following year and that enough farmers accept loans to make the plan effective on supply.
5. Drop production control but substitute marketing control with each farmer given his prorated share of the domestic market at a fixed domestic price and with the surplus flowing into the foreign markets at whatever the world market price may be. This is known as the "pro-rate two-price" system.
6. Drop production control and restore foreign purchasing power by loaning approximately $500,000,000 annually to foreign nations.
7. Drop production control and restore foreign purchasing power by lowering tariffs sufficiently to cause imports to exceed exports by at least $500,000,000 annually.
8. Use some combination of these different methods.

Wallace said that he considered compulsory control a project "not generally desired." He opposed wholly voluntary control on a co-operative basis, too. He said:

"I think it is better to have the government as a rallying point."

British and French

the British attitude is felt here. The great difficulty now is not so much to persuade the British to agree to peace terms, which might be acceptable to Premier Mussolini, but to persuade Mussolini to let France and Great Britain pull him out of the hole into which he has got himself.

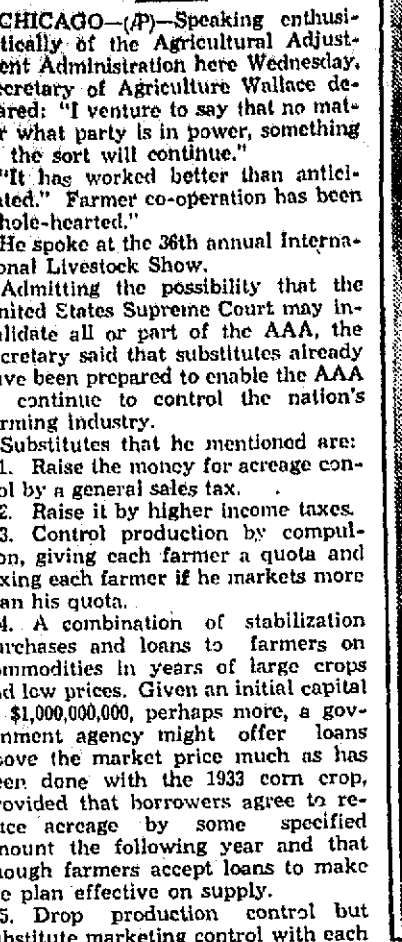

French Mussolini Hanging On
So far the Italian dictator has shown no disposition to do this, apparently feeling that his greatest danger is an internal one and that by maintaining the country at a feverish pitch of patriotism, continuance of sanctions will be more favorable than unfavorable to him.

The Italian game at present is to try to obtain a postponement of the oil embargo by hinting at a willingness to make concessions, but not committing itself in any way. This leads the French to believe that Premier Mussolini has no real strategy and is only putting off his difficulties from day to day, hoping for a miracle.

David Kaphokhoakimikowosakne-mahhanok is Haiti's postmaster-general. Still, it's only right he monopolize most of the letters in Haiti.

The season's lopsided football scores seem to have a rival in the recent Italy-Ethiopia tally: 2000 natives to one Italian hit in the oil tank.

Matanuska Lad 'Goes Native'

Colonization in Alaska's Matanuska Valley may not have been so easy on his elders, but it's apparently "great stuff" to this cheerful young "Eskimo." With his new fur parka, this son of one of the American colonists can pretend he's a real whale-hunting Eskimo, or even Admiral Byrd. And he is thrilled!

Excessive Regulation and Taxation Complained of by Management

Copyright Associated Press
NEW YORK.—(AP)—Formal parting of the ways between American business and the New Deal impended over the social and economic policies of the federal government as the 1936 Congress of American Industry and the 40th annual meeting of the National Manufacturers Association opened here Wednesday.

Authoritative quarters forecast the adoption of a 1936 "platform of business" affirming support of the American system of capitalist expansion, economic progress, freedom of competitive enterprise and unequivocal opposition to procedure and methods evident in New Deal policies.

Such a stand would be in direct reversal of the platform ratified last year, in which co-operative method was the friendly theme.

It was expected that business leaders would voice belief in:

1. Maintenance of constitutional guarantees and protection of the American constitution.
2. Preservation of individual enterprise.
3. Elimination of undue regulation of private business.
4. Opposition to excessive taxation, unsound government financing, and excessive federal expenditures beyond the normal operating expenses of government.
5. Establishment of a national currency upon a dollar of fixed gold content.
6. Adherence to the national theory of "economic progress" as the best means for social security.
7. Adherence to the "American system."

A good pond of water should produce as many pounds of fish per acre as a pasture will produce pounds of beef, says L. A. Whitford of the University of North Carolina botany department.

It is the adults who are hand-down-of-law and distributors of punishment. And when adults fall out among themselves—announce a punishment and then spare the rod when dealing with each other, don't you ever think for one moment that this silent, youthful audience all around us is missing a thing. They don't miss a thing in the family circle—and they don't miss a thing in the public arena, either. I'm not telling you folks anything—I'm just reminding you.

FLUSH OUT 15 MILES OF KIDNEY TUBES

Medical authorities agree that your kidneys contain 15 MILES of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy.

If you have trouble with too frequent bladder passages with scanty amount causing burning and discomfort, the 15 MILES of kidney tubes may need flushing out. This danger signal may be the beginning of nagging backache, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes and dizziness.

If kidneys don't empty 3 pints a day and so get rid of more than 3 pounds of waste, poisonous matter may develop, causing serious trouble. Don't wait. Ask your druggist for DOAN'S PILLS, which have been used successfully by millions of people for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help to flush out 15 MILES of kidney tubes. Get DOAN'S PILLS at your druggist.

GOOSE-PIMPLES? ... I used to have them as big as lemons! My skin felt as rough as sandpaper from Fall till the first of Spring. But that was before I got hep to HANES. I'll never forget my first suit. I pulled it on and buttoned up, and it felt as soft and warm as could be. I'm telling you those HANES people know their knitting. They're not a bunch of knit-wits. They make that cloth so elastic, and so true to your trunk and chest-size, that it stretches and gives with every move you make! ### Anti-Saloon League on a New Crusade

And Bishop Cannon Once More Heads Belligerent Prohibition Forces

ST. LOUIS, Mo.—(AP)—Launching a "new crusade" for prohibition, the Anti-Saloon League of America Wednesday night called upon President Roosevelt to abolish the use of intoxicants at all White House and public functions and as leader of the repeal movement which promised the saloon would not return to condemn "publicly and emphatically the violation of this pledge."

The resolution was drafted by Bishop James Cannon Jr., Los Angeles, powerful dry champion of prohibition days, and adopted without comment.

"Tragic results of repeal, the enormous increase in the sale of intoxicants with the consequent result of increase of drunkenness especially in women and youth, the shocking traffic fatalities and the prevalence of crimes of violence," were deplored.

In other resolutions, calling for campaigns for local option and state restrictive liquor laws, the league predicted "the return to prohibition is inevitable."

"While we recognize that we must start once again with local units we announce positively and unhesitatingly that our final objective is prohibition for every state and for the entire nation."

The league re-established its Legislative Committee, abolished six years ago, and named Bishop Cannon as its chairman.

few days with Mrs. Mills of Nevada county.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Vines and children have returned home from different points in the west where he has been employed.

Personal Tax List MUST BE PAID

We have the personal tax list at the Hope office located over the Citizens National Bank Building.

This office will be open from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m. each week day and payment of taxes should be made there.

I will have to proceed under the statute, which makes each item assessed responsible for the taxes, so please call at the office at once and pay your personal taxes and avoid the embarrassment of having your property sold to satisfy taxes.
